The Course of an Empire

Indianapolis Sunday Sentinel

An evening spent at the Union Depot will furnish an explanation to one who is curious to account for the rapid settling of the western states.

A human tide is ceaselessly pouring into that fertile district beyond the Mississippi, which, a few years ago, was marked upon the maps of our country as the Great American Desert. Though these people may be from the toiling classes of Europe, experience has shown that they are provident, resolute and brave.

It is only courageous men and women who will risk a journey of 5,000 miles on the rude sea and face the dangers incident to seeking a home in a foreign country; and no race of people, not even the native born American, is so well adapted to the catch-as-catch-can life of the pioneer as these hardy northerners. When he comes, he comes to stay, and he remains firm through good or evil report.

A great success does not unwholesomely elate him; a total failure of crop brings him nothing like despair. There is an acid and bitterness in American poverty; but the foreigner can be poor and yet happy. That family is humble as the world goes, without squalor, without fretting. Around that little home, however humble, trees and vines are planted, wherever trees and vines can grow. Comfort is taken in the pig, the cow is a friend, and for the great big, pretty baby that comes with the regularity of the seasons, for a dozen years, God is praised.

A New England senator not long ago remarked to a brother senator that he would bet fifty dollars, if the truth could be known, that when Senator Edmund's mother first taught him the Lord's Prayer he bounced up and offered an amendment to it.

Lord Darnley, a friend of the domestic quadruped creation, drives a horse about the streets of London that wears spectacles. The animal was found to be near-sighted, and its owner has successfully tried the experiment by remedying the defect in the same way as is done with human beings.

George H. Manny, of Tennessee, the new Minister to Columbia, raised the first Confederate regiment in his state, and fought hard on the rebel side during the war, but after it was over became a Republican, and was a Garfield elector at-large last fall.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR CHAPPED HANDS. IS HEGEMANN'S CAMPHOR ICE. It should be rubbed upon the part affected. The warmth of the skin will soothe it sufficiently, under ordinary circumstances, but in extreme cold weather it may be necessary to warm it by the fire. If the hands are badly chapped, apply every night, and protect the hands by wearing an old pair of kid gloves. Hegemann's is the best and most popular of all the camphor remedies. Hegemann's Camphor Ice is also a cure for sore lips, chapped face, and sunburn. It is compounded with glycerine, which renders it more emollient than any other camphor ice, and it will be found a most soothing application to the face after shaving. Be sure to ask for Hegemann's (formerly made by Hegemann & Co., New York and now made by the Metropolitan Med. Co. of New York). It is a pure and honest preparation, and does not contain any other compound, which may become rancid and do you more harm than good. HEGEMANN'S CAMPHOR ICE never fails.

Put it to Proof
At a time when the community is flooded with so many unworthy devices and concoctions, it is a relief to find one that is beneficial and pure. So conspicuous are the proprietors of Dr. Kink's New Discovery for Consumption, of the worth of their remedy, that they offer all who desire a trial bottle free of charge. This certainly would be a disservice to them did not the remedy possess the remarkable curative qualities claimed. Dr. Kink's New Discovery for Consumption will positively cure Asthma, Bronchitis, Stubborn Coughs, Colds, Phthisis, Quinsey, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection of the throat and lungs. As you value your existence, get this wonderful remedy a trial by calling on Hubbard & Swearingin, druggists, and obtaining a trial bottle free of cost, or a regular size bottle for $1.00.

In Trouble
Wingate, the Lamp Store man, says the St. Louis Summer Cooking Stove Factory cannot make stoves as fast as he can sell them, their excellence and cheapness is what's the matter. Everybody that sees them in operation want one right off.

"Eli" got there.

Decatur's cup of joy is running over to-day. The glorious victory of the Rescue boys at Council Bluffs and Patti's triumph at St. Louis all coming at once have fairly unseated us with glory.

His Excellency.

Governor Shelby M. Cullom, who was passing through Decatur at noon to-day, on his way to New York, witnessed the enthusiastic reception tendered our victorious firemen at the depot, and expressed much gratification over the display. He desired the REPUBLICAN to tender his warmest congratulations to the "boys" upon their magnificent victory.

AMERICANS have much to felicitate themselves upon just now. A Yankee horse won the English Derby a few days ago, and now another flyer from this side of the water has carried away the Grand Prix at Paris. But still we are not proud.

PROF. RILEY, of the United States entomological commission, says the locusts now appearing in the west and south are of two distinct breeds; that one is the thirteen-year locust and the other is the seventeen-year locust, and this is the first time they have appeared in the same year since 1660. Prof. Riley says these locusts cannot do any damage except to young fruit trees, in the limbs of which they deposit eggs. He says that the notion that these locusts sting human beings is a fallacy; that a species of digger wasp feeds on these young locusts, and people have been stung by these wasps, from which the belief has sprung that locusts sting. Prof. Riley says the locusts will suddenly disappear before long.

A NEW PARTY.

The contest now going on at Albany has given rise to many speculations as to the future of political parties in the United States, and a good deal is heard about the breaking-up of the present organizations and the formation of a new party. We have received a copy of the Illinois By-Stander, a new paper published at Macomb by our old friend, Hon. B. R. Hampton, which seems to be devoted to the interests of a new party, and sets forth the following summary of principles which it asks ex-Senator Conkling and the New York Herald to endorse:

1st. A full, complete and unequivocal declaration of the supremacy of national government, and its duty to protect the rights of its citizens everywhere—at home and abroad.

2nd. The protection of the people against all monopolies of whatever character, and the regulation by law of the charges by telegraph, express and railroad companies.

3d. The payment of the public debt as rapidly as it can be done by the revenue of the government, using all the present modes of raising revenue and adding thereto a moderate and equitable tax upon incomes.

4th. The enactment of more stringent laws against polygamy and their rigid enforcement.

5th. The national government to continue to have control of the currency of the country, keeping out of existence all banks of issue except such as are authorized and chartered by acts of congress, and the continuation of the present greenback circulation until such time as the last dollar of the bonded debt has been fully paid.

A political platform usually first names the cardinal principles of the party it represents, and pads out a sufficient amount of space to make itself look respectable, with a lot of secondary and comparatively unimportant theories. The first paragraph of the platform proposed by the By-Stander contains the central idea of Republicanism, and upon it the grand old party made the campaign of 1890. The Democratic party, while not daring to oppose without equivocation the national idea, really did so when it "pledged itself anew to the constitutional doctrines and traditions" of the ancient party—the Kentucky and Virginia resolutions of 1798. The national idea, so consistently maintained by the Republican party, and so belittled and ridiculed by the Democracy, was barely victorious in November. The party which represented that idea triumphed by but a few thousands in the popular vote, and it is but the sheerest nonsense to assume that the question was forever settled by the verdict of last November. What practical sense, then, is there in a proposition to abandon a party built upon that idea in order to build up a new organization whose corner-stone is to be the very same doctrine? Surely it cannot be urged that Democrats are ready to desert their own party, which came so near success last fall, in order to join a new party formed upon the very idea that the Democracy has spurned and spit upon ever since the days of Jefferson.

If one thing the By-Stander may rest assured: the Democratic party is in no danger of disbanding just now. With one-half of the United States senate in their possession, with a house of representatives that is Republican but by a single vote, they would be worse than fools to abandon their organization. The "supremacy of the national government," if maintained at all, must be maintained by the Republican party. It is the only one of the old parties that has the will to do it, and no new party could become powerful enough in the next fifteen or twenty years to establish that or any other idea (no matter how willing it should be) if the Democratic party should once get full control of the government—which calamity may God forbid.

THE Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveler says: During a talk with Colonel Fred Dent, of the First artillery, who is a brother in law of General Grant, the Traveler correspondent was informed that the ex-president was terribly in earnest in his Mexican railroad project, and would undoubtedly carry it into successful execution. The general shows a desire to see the matter carried through, and is confident that a great deal of money can be made out of it. Colonel Dent alluded in terms of praise to the brilliant business success of Buck Grant and Jesse Grant, sons of the general, both of whom have made a great deal of money during the past five years. They have displayed much business tact, and have already accumulated a good sized fortune, and are worth considerably more than their illustrious father. The success of these two brothers has led their older brother, Lieutenant Colonel Fred Grant, to send in his resignation as an officer of the army, and he intends to embark in railroad operations with his father in Mexico.

VERY probably those eminent literary artists who furnish platforms for Democratic conventions will pronounce the revision of the New Testament a humiliating failure. Judged by their standpoint it undoubtedly is. There is no "retention of eternal principles" in it, though the principles it enunciates may, in consideration of a score of centuries of age, be regarded as entitled to deserving more of reverence than the resolutions of '98. It does "not point with pride" to anything in particular, though it may well do so, considering what has been accomplished by it since it was first given to the world. It does not "renew its declaration of unwavering fidelity to the fundamental precepts," but that fidelity is a very real thing for several hundred million people. It does not "repel with scorn," or "indignantly denounce," or "spurn with contempt" anything in particular; in fact, it seems to lack pretty much all that forms the bones and sinews of a platform of great principle, but nevertheless it manages to say a great many things that go right to the spot and stay there, though they who wrote them are dust, and again part of the dull clouds whence they sprang.—Toledo Blade.

Secretary of state Blaine will possibly not go to Augusta, Maine, Tuesday, as was expected. His rheumatism has so much improved that he will forego the intended summer retirement, unless there should be another change for the worse. Owing to the damp, cold weather of last week his case was unusually bad.

Wins the Grand Prize at Paris.

Washington and Albany News.

PARIS, June 12.—The race for the grand prize of Paris took place to-day and resulted in another victory for an American horse. J. R. Keene's b. c. Foxhall was the winner, with Le Fèvre's ch. c. Tristan second, and Count De La Grange's b. c. Albion, third. The contest was a very close and exciting one, especially near the finish.

The various roads to Houg's Champ were thronged with vehicles. A great many drags were conspicuous bearing the American flag.

The attendance was immense. President Grevy, ex-Queen Isabella and ministers Constans, Maguire, and Ferry were present. Rochester, the Duke of Hamilton, Prince Solteikoff and Marshal McMahon were in the paddock. Owing to the recent rainfall the course was in excellent order. Two to one was the best price obtainable. Allison and Tristan were well supported. Song prices were obtainable about the remainder. It may be truthfully said that Foxhall was in the front through the race, and despite all the efforts of Archer, who brought Tristan in with a great rush at the distance, Foxhall won by a head amidst tumultuous applause from the Americans, who seemed to go quite mad, and the waving of the stars and stripes from many drags. In the preliminary center Casimer and Albion appeared to go best, although Foxhall was greatly admired. After one false start, the horses were sent on their journey. Foxhall and Tristan took the lead, but Archer pulled Tristan back, and Dublin became second.

Alternate running was then made by Foxhall and Dublin, followed by Fiddler, Leon and Albion with Farum and Tristan next and Casimer last. Until going down the hill, about half a mile from home, where Foxhall still led with Fiddler second, Dublin being beaten. Foxhall and Fiddler were now attended by Scoobell, Tristan and Albion. In this order they ran to the distance, where Tristan joined Foxhall and the pair ran a superb race home, Foxhall, who stayed the longest winning by a head. Four lengths separated the second and third horses. Fiddler was fourth, Scoobell fifth, Royonmont sixth, Forum seventh, Dublin eighth, Casimer ninth and Leon last. Time 3 minutes and 7 seconds.

The betting at the start was 2 to 1 against Foxhall, 3 to 1 against Albion, 4 to 1 against Scoobell, and 5 to 1 against Tristan. Ten ran. After the decision of the Grand Prix, all interest in the races seemed to die out and the vast crowd moved speedily to the capital.

The grand prize of Paris is 100,000 francs in specie, given half by the city of Paris and voted in the budget of 1881, and half by the five great railway companies, for the entire colts and fillies foaled in 1878 of every description and country, added to the sweepstakes of 1,000 francs each, 600 francs forfeit and 500 francs only if declared by midnight on the Wednesday preceding the race, and 100 francs only if declared by midnight on the 1st of May, 1881; the second horse to receive 10,000 francs, and the third 5,000, out of the stakes; weights, colts 121 lbs., fillies 118 lbs.; about one mile and seven furlongs, 280 subscribers.

Great interest was shown in the race, because of an American colt running for the first time. A large number of Americans crossed the channel to witness the race.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 11.—The bribery investigating committee reassembled last evening, when Armstrong, of Oneida county, testified that he had been offered money by Edwards, a lobbyist, to vote against Conkling, but had not been asked to vote for any one. The committee then adjourned.

This morning the committee met to resume the investigation.

Win. K. Tremble, member of the assembly from Twenty-first New York district, testified: He had conversation with several persons on the subject of the election of senators. It was at my room in the Delevan house; it was with a gentleman named Edwards; don't know where he resides; have a passing acquaintance with him; have no knowledge of what his business is; there was no arrangement for meeting so far as I was concerned; he came to my room between 8 and 10 a. m. on Tuesday last. He walked in and sat down, and introduced the senatorial question. He asked me why I continued to vote for Conkling and Platt when there was no chance of electing them. I told him that I did not agree with him. He asked me what my expenses were. I said between $2,000 and $2,500. He said if the friends of DePew would pay these expenses, would I not change my vote. I told him that I would not, that if I changed my vote it would be for other reasons. This conversation was interrupted into general conversation. I understood him to mean by expenses my election expenses and expenses here. That was all the conversation I had with him.

To Brooks—I meant when I told him that I would not change unless some arrangement was made, that unless there were some other combination of candidates agreed upon by my party. My opinion of Edwards was that which would be yours or any other honest man, that he was a d—d rascal. I have seen this man Edwards several times during the session. Don't know his first name. Can't say how I first met Edwards. I have heard he was a lobbyist. I have reason now to believe he is.

Witness here left the stand, and the committee adjourned to 9 a. m. Monday. The joint convention met at noon and proceeded to vote to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Roscoe Conkling. The result was as follows: Jacobs, 29; Conkling, 23; Wheeler, 19; Rogers, 14; Cornell, 8; Folger, 1, Lapham 7, Tremaine 4. No choice.

The convention then voted for a senator to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Platt. The result was as follows:

DePew 38, Kernan 29, Platt 21, Cornell 7, Folger 3, Lapham 2, Crowley 2. No choice.

The convention then adjourned to Monday.

The smallness of the vote in the joint convention to-day is due to the fact that many members are paired, and at present on leave.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—The treasury department is getting checks ready for the payment of the July interest on 4 per cent bonds. It requires 64,000 checks to pay this interest.

Pitney, the custodian of the treasury, has refused to testify before the investigation committee, and he maintains that they cannot compel him to testify under oath. There is no way under the ordinary rule of evidence to force Pitney to testify. The ground that he might thus criminate himself protects him. He was willing to answer questions if not sworn, but would not be put under oath. This action of Pitney caused considerable comment, one report being that he holds his mouth to protect the men who have held and now hold higher positions than he holds. In fact, in talking at times, Pitney has let out hints to this effect. Among the items he had entered on his books as having been purchased was a number of boxes of candles. No candles are used in the treasury, and when asked about it, Pitney frankly stated that he had never actually bought any candles, but that "under orders" he had at different times provided nice lunches for some officials, and he covered the expense by charging it up to the candles.

The president has returned from Annapolis.

NEW YORK, June 12.—James R. Keene, the owner of Foxhall, was overwhelmed with congratulations upon his victory to-day. The stakes won amount to about $35,000. He has telegraphed to his agent to give $2,500 to his jockey, and $2,500 to his trainer, and nearly all the money will go, as he remarked to-day, "to the men who have made the victory for Foxhall and America." He had no bets on the race.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Sunday Capital, one of the four star-route organs of this city, repeats its bitter personal attack on the president and Detective A. M. Gibson, and it is rumored that the latter will personally chastise the editor (A. C. Buell) on sight. The two closing paragraphs of the original article, and the additional comments of to-day, which are still more severe, are here given:

The issue is the simplest one that could be framed in language. If Mr. Gibson is not a libeler, you are a bribe taker, thief, perjurer and suborner of perjury and forgery. Mr. Gibson is a libeler under the criminal statute. This is the "violent assault" embodying, as Mr. Gibson's organs confess, a sort of cold, grim logic, but still a "violent assault" all the same. We are willing to let it stand that way, but there is one assertion of Mr. Gibson's that we desire to repel. Mr. Gibson has inspired them to say that our article addressed "To the President" was dictated "by our fear of Mr. Gibson." This assertion is false. There is no man on earth whom we fear less than we do Mr. Gibson. If we had been afraid of him we would not have denounced him as we have been doing for nearly three years as a common libeler and suborner of perjury. We have been denouncing him as a common libeler ever since he confessed before a committee of congress that he could not sustain certain charges he had made against the navy department. We have been denouncing him as a common suborner of perjury ever since the report of the Potter committee. We believe that he is as base, as vile, as corrupt, as venal, as desperate, as abandoned and as vicious a wretch as walks the earth outside of prison walls. All these things and more we have said concerning him time and again, daring him the while to select his remedy at law or by violence. He has been too discreet for the one and too cowardly for the other.

If the friends of Mr. Gibson speak truly there is blood upon the face of the star route moon; somebody is going to get hurt, and which of the two, Mr. Buell or Mr. Gibson, will depend somewhat on which is the quicker on the draw. The animosity of Buell is said to be because of the report that Detective Gibson caused to be given out that in their investigation of the star route cases a certain check for $2,000 from a star route contractor, drawn in Buell's favor, was found. Mr. Buell acknowledges the receipt of the money but claims it was for legitimate fees as counsel in certain cases. It is hinted that several other prominent newspaper men are involved in these star route cases who will doubtless plead guilty of acting as counsel.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Griscom has entered well into the 16th day of his fast, and is as hopeful as ever of abstaining from food for 45 days or longer. The only change visible in his face, which is a little paler, and in his temper, which is originally very good, has become somewhat irascible. The observations taken by the physicians show substantially the same results as those taken during the earlier stages of the fast. His blood exhibits no change whatever.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18, 1879.
My children were all seriously troubled with whooping cough. We treated them with regularly prescribed medicines, with Homoeopathic Specifics, etc., with but little or no result until we gave them Cough Balm which immediately assisted nature to restore them to good health. I truly believe it the best medicine in the world for whooping cough.

TOO COMMUNISTIC

Philosophers sagely declare, without reservation or stint, that the source of true happiness here is an equal division of wealth. But the doctrine is too communistic laying it on a little "too thick." Better far is a bottle of Spring Blossom to take whenever you are feeling sick. Prices: $1, 50 cents, and trial bottles 10 cents.
